

CFC Report March
Lucas Fullam, English CM
4/10/23

As of 4/10

Discord: 11,467
Reddit: 2,060
Firo Project: 4,700
Firo Trading: 1,289
Firo Mining: 353

Difference

Discord: -43
Reddit: +7
Firo Project: -78
Firo Trading: -19
Firo Mining: +13

Previous Difference

Discord: +21
Reddit: +1
Firo Project: +96
Firo Trading: +13
Firo Mining: +47

Welcome to the new members of the CFC! Congratulations on your wins! For previous members of the CFC, if you are reading this, thank you for your time and service serving on the CFC! 8 more days and the tie break for the last seat will be done. Now, to the matters at hand. As you can see above, the numbers look rough. There's only two numbers in the positive above from February. Reddit and Firo mining. Of course, this isn't entirely unexpected. Price action has cooled down, the Zero-Knowledge trend has calmed down, and we did end up having to ban a lot of scam/spam accounts that were on boarding during the hype. Mind you that for the February report, the difference of it from January was

Discord: -24
Reddit +6
Firo Project: -10
Firo Trading: -5

What is somewhat surprising is the continued rise in the mining channel. Mining difficulty has been dropping even though interest from miners appears to be going up, which may mean that we're gaining more loyal Firo miners and moving away from larger merc miner operations. Or at least, that is the conjecture I have. It is a shame we did not have a greater retention rate on those who came for the hype, but at the same time if they were only joining our community in the hopes of a moonshot then perhaps it is best to not retain them in the ranks.

